

INDEPENDENT ALT-POP / PORTLAND, OREGON

Belyouga

Music for the moment when self-improvement gives way to self-recognition.

“Maybe I’m cracked, maybe that’s fine. At least the broken parts are mine.”

SEPTEMBER SINGLES

“Here I Am” / “Like a Sign”

ARTIST

Written and performed by Belyouga

STATUS

Independent

The imperfect parts do not need polishing.

THE RELEASE

ARTIST

Belyouga

GENRE

Alt-pop

BASED IN

Portland, Oregon

RELEASE

"Here I Am"
September 2026

LABEL

Independent

"Here I Am" is about getting tired of trying to polish every imperfect part of yourself into something easier to love.

The song follows the cycle of falling apart, getting back up, and eventually realizing that the broken parts may not need fixing. Its center is not perfection, but ownership: the hard-won decision to see the cracks and still call them yours.

"Maybe I'm cracked,
maybe that's fine.
At least the broken
parts are mine."

Written and performed by Belyouga.

LISTEN

Spotify: "Here I Am"

INSTAGRAM

@belyouga

CONTACT

belyouga@outlook.com

AVAILABLE

Press photo and MP3

Press photo supplied by the artist. Photo credit not provided.

Longing makes coincidence feel like fate.

THE NEW SINGLE

"Like a Sign" is what happens when longing gets so loud it starts rearranging the world around you.

A glance becomes evidence. Silence becomes language. Coincidence starts wearing the face of fate.

You know you might be inventing meaning where there is none, but wanting someone can make even the smallest things feel sacred.

It lives in that dangerous space between intuition and obsession, where hope keeps turning ordinary moments into proof because accepting that they mean nothing would hurt more.

RELEASE

Friday, September 18, 2026

GENRE

Alt-pop

INSTAGRAM

@belyouga

ARTIST

Belyouga

STATUS

Independent

CONTACT

belyouga@outlook.com